Responses: 279

In Question 10, respondents were asked to provide ideas for additional improvements in an open-ended format. Respondents frequently elaborated on answer options provided in the prior questions. Common themes included:

- A desire for more activities that appeal to all generations, particularly kids and families. Ideas included a bowling alley, roller skating rink, outdoor arena, paddle boats at the riverfront, and more youth specific programming and activities.
- Expanded nightlife entertainment and dining options, including dance clubs and more places open later hours, especially on weekends. More options are needed for entertainment, dining, and social opportunities that are safe and welcoming to the LGBTQ community.
- Specific retail and dining opportunities cited included a grocery store, pharmacy, full-service gas station, shoe store, fabric store, affordable clothing retailers, and more breakfast (and diner) options.
- There is a desire to allow some chain stores Downtown to help ensure a more affordable product mix. Boutiques and independent stores tend to be more expensive.
- Direct quote from one respondent: "Drawing amenities and retail for different income levels, and not just on Saginaw St. is important. The lack of amenities for city dwellers -- especially those of limited income-- is an imbalance and a problem."

- More diverse business ownership and representation is desired. Direct quotes from respondents are italicized below.
  - "I moved to Flint about 2 years ago and was saddened to find out about the lack of Black owned businesses downtown. I think a diverse racial/ethnic/cultural downtown would help it thrive. I guess what I would ultimately like to see is some sort of business incubator to help diversify the racial makeup of business owners in downtown Flint."
  - "Downtown currently feels like a monopoly. A monopoly that caters to certain groups and a certain demographic, even at the risk of those businesses and business owners failing. With a more inclusive environment, we would not experience such knee jerk responses to events and groups of people being able to experience the available spaces and venues."
- Affordable options for entrepreneurs to start a business are desired, with more initiatives to work with the owners of vacant buildings to offer space for emerging businesses.
- There are opportunities to redevelop more of downtown's surface parking lots.
- Expand housing and employment opportunities:
  - More density is desired, including housing (not just apartments, but rowhomes too).
  - Boost downtown employment, particularly higher paying jobs.
  - "If you want a vibrant, creative community, expensive housing will not achieve that goal. It is only when artists, entrepreneurs, and other creative people can afford to live and work that you will see that sort of outcome. We also must be sure to develop downtown in a way where we aren't actively displacing existing populations in adjacent neighborhoods."
  - "The creative energy in Flint is off the hook, but we can only get so far without addressing core employment and standard-of-living issues for residents."
- More cohesive marketing and promotion of events is needed. Consider a single reliable source of information – or better coordinate calendars -- so that more people know about all events.
- Make more conscious efforts to partner with diverse organizations and producers for inclusive event programming.
- Consider closing off side streets (1st, 2nd, 3rd, Kearsley) to allow restaurants to have outdoor seating year-round.
- Market the area north of the river as much as the rest of Downtown, and integrate it into the perceived core of Downtown.
- Encourage churches to become more active in the Downtown community.
- Improve partnerships with UM-Flint and bring more focus to educational institutions.
- Communication and leadership: better communication and coordination between DDA, City of Flint, and the businesses and organizations downtown, is desired.
  - "Restart the DDA communication meeting that used to be held on Wednesdays at lunch. Timing can be different but creating a space for downtown stakeholders to be together to get info and provide feedback was very valuable."
  - City Processes: "Make the city's planning/zoning/building departments efficient. They are lacking process. They are overburdened. They need to serve the needs of all. Instead, they are often the brick wall standing in the way of creative ideas."
